NEW QUESTION: 1

Which attribute is not part of the BGP extended community when a PE creates a VPN-IPv4 route while running OSPF between PE-CE?

- A. MED
- B. OSPF route type
- C. OSPF router ID
- D. OSPF network type
- E. OSPF domain identifier

Answer: D

Explanation:

By process of elimination, from RFC 4577:

For every address prefix that was installed in the VRF by one of its associated OSPF instances, the PE must create a

VPN-IPv4 route in BGP. Each such route will have some of the following Extended Communities attributes:

- The OSPF Domain Identifier Extended Communities attribute. If the OSPF instance that installed the route has a non-NULL primary Domain Identifier, this MUST be present; if that OSPF instance has only a NULL Domain Identifier, it MAY be omitted.

- OSPF Route Type Extended Communities Attribute. This attribute MUST be present. It is encoded with a two-byte type field, and its type is 0306.

- OSPF Router ID Extended Communities Attribute. This OPTIONAL attribute specifies the OSPF Router ID of the system that is identified in the BGP Next Hop attribute. More precisely, it specifies the OSPF Router ID of the PE in the OSPF instance that installed the route into the VRF from which this route was exported.

- MED (Multi_EXIT_DISC attribute). By default, this SHOULD be set to the value of the OSPF distance associated with the route, plus 1.

NEW QUESTION: 2

In a production environment, your gateway is configured to apply a Hide NAT for all internal traffic destined to the Internet. However, you are setting up a VPN tunnel with a remote gateway, and you are concerned about the encryption domain that you need to define on the remote gateway. Does the remote gateway need to include your production gateway's external IP in its encryption domain?

A. No - all packets destined to go through the VPN tunnel will have the payload encapsulated in an ESP packet and after decryption at the remote site, will have the same internal source and destination IP addresses.

B. Yes - all packets destined to go through the VPN tunnel will have the payload encapsulated in an ESP packet and after decryption at the remote site, the packet will contain the source IP of the Gateway because of Hide NAT.

C. Yes - The gateway will apply the Hide NAT for this VPN traffic.

D. No - all packets destined through a VPN will leave with original source and destination packets without translation.

Answer: A
