NEW QUESTION: 2

ASP.NET MVC Razor view rendering CSS files. The code snippet shows a `@Styles.Render` call for a bundle named `~/Content/css`. The explanation states that this call renders all CSS files included in that bundle, which is declared in the `BundleConfig` class in the `App_Start` folder. A second `@RenderSection` call is shown for a section named `featured`, which renders the content of that section just above the body of the page. The explanation notes that `RenderSection` only renders a part of the child view that is wrapped under the named section. The `RenderSection` method includes a boolean parameter `required`, which makes the section optional or mandatory. If `required` is true, the child view must contain the section. A third `@RenderSection` call is shown for a section named `scripts`, which renders the content of that section at the bottom of the layout page.

Answer:

Explanation:

Explanation:

Box 1: `@Styles.Render("~/Content/css")`

- Render a StyleBundle named `~/Content/css`.

`@Styles.Render("~/Content/css")` is calling the files included in that particular bundle which is declared inside the `BundleConfig` class in the `App_Start` folder.

Box 2: `@RenderSection("featured", true)`

- Render the content of a section named `featured` just above the body of the page.

`RenderSection` renders only a part of the child view that is wrapped under the named section.

`RenderSection()` method includes a boolean parameter `required` which makes the section optional or mandatory. If `required` parameter is true then the child view must contain the section.

Box 3: `@RenderSection("scripts", false)`
