NEW QUESTION: 1

What two situations could require the use of multiple routing protocols? (Choose two)

- A. when all equipment is manufactured by Cisco
- B. when smaller broadcast domains are desired
- C. when migrating from an older Interior Gateway Protocol (IGP) to a new IGP
- D. because having multiple routing protocols confuses hackers
- E. when using UNIX host-based routers
- F. when there are multiple paths to destination networks

Answer: C,E

Explanation:

Simple routing protocols work well for simple networks, but networks grow and become more complex.

While running a single routing protocol throughout your entire IP internetwork is desirable, multiprotocol routing is common for a number of reasons, including company mergers, multiple departments managed by multiple network administrators, multivendor environments, or simply because the original routing protocol is no longer the best choice. Often, the multiple protocols are redistributed into each other during a migration period from one protocol to the other.

NEW QUESTION: 2

Which of the following devices is MOST likely being used when processing the following?

1 PERMIT IP ANY ANY EQ 80
2 DENY IP ANY ANY

- A. URL filter
- B. NIPS
- C. Firewall
- D. Load balancer

Answer: C

Explanation:

Firewalls, routers, and even switches can use ACLs as a method of security management. An access control list has a deny ip any any implicitly at the end of any access control list. ACLs deny by default and allow by exception.

NEW QUESTION: 3

NEW QUESTION: 4

Which of the following is NOT a fundamental component of an alarm in an intrusion detection system?

- A. Response
- B. Communications
- C. Sensor
- D. Enunciator

Answer: A

Explanation:

Response is the correct choice. A response would essentially be the action that is taken once an alarm has been produced by an IDS, but is not a fundamental component of the alarm.

The following are incorrect answers:

Communications is the component of an alarm that delivers alerts through a variety of channels such as email, pagers, instant messages and so on.

An Enunciator is the component of an alarm that uses business logic to compose the content and format of an alert and determine the recipients of that alert.

A sensor is a fundamental component of IDS alarms. A sensor detects an event and produces an appropriate notification.
